

Editor-in-Chief Note

In The 5th issue of the Sports Business Journal was published, and more audiences know it today. The number of fast-rejected papers has decreased because the journal's scope has found its position among its audience. We are honored that today researchers in the sports business scopes can publish their research results in a specialized journal with the highest qualitative and structural forms.

Through this issue, not only the grammatical editing of the articles with high precision has been done, but all the references have been controlled and automated with End note software. So, all references in the text of the articles have linked to their original pages on the Internet. This quality obtains by spending a lot of time and with high precision, like the other high-quality journals worldwide. This effort makes the sources and references with the minimum errors in each paper, and incorrect references are corrected carefully. Also, all the articles will be carefully uploaded on the researchers' Publons, Research gate, and Google Scholar pages. As well as, every time one of them has been cited by any author around the world, they will be informed. In addition, the journal's reviewers can inform other editors and researchers of their activities by recording their reviews on their personal Publons pages and thus receive the possibility of more review invitations from the different international chief editors.

In addition, sharing articles and journal issues on its social media have increased its and the authors' visibility, increasing the journal's H-index to 8. This growth is a good statistic for a short period from its started activity. In this way, we have tried to register the journal in valid scientific indexes. By the grace of God and the cooperation of dear authors, we hope it succeeds in receiving the highest scientific rank in Iran. Furthermore, we will coordinate that Iranian writers and researchers cooperate more and better with foreign researchers in conducting research work and writing joint scientific articles.

In this way, we are incredibly grateful to the support of the Vice-Chancellor of Research and the Publications Department of Alzahra University, who did not hesitate to do everything they could and needed by the executive team of the journal. Also, we are grateful to the dear referees for their careful and compassionate reviews of the articles, the authors of this issue for submitting their valuable papers, and the detailed answers to the corrections requested by the referees, improving the quality of the articles. In line with our mission and to responding the young researchers' requests, we hope to plan and hold two workshops to help young researchers conduct high-quality research and write quality articles in English and at the level of international indexes and promote the articles.
